
Labeling: This info-graphic uses second generation labeling. This generation of labeling connects the object to its label. In the first block of the info-graphic, there is a label for each finger and the palm and wrist of the hand. Each label tells a specific fact for the part of the hand for which it is intended. For example, the palm has a line coming out of it that tells of how the skin on the palm of the hand has no fingerprints, hair or pigmentation. In the second part of this info-graphic, the bottom right box uses third generation labeling to label how a palmists predict one's future through the examination of the lines and other features on the hand.
